INTRODUCTION

The fundamental reforms being implemented in our country are based on the task of educating young people as complete individuals who are the hope for the future and the future of the homeland. The role of all educational institutions and teachers in educating and raising young people as comprehensively well-rounded individuals is incomparable. Each growing young generation acquires the most important and necessary knowledge in the process of primary education. Therefore, every teacher must approach this important process responsibly. In educating young people in the spirit of love for the homeland and loyalty to the people, the importance of family and community members is great. Many changes and innovations are being carried out in all educational institutions so that young people can acquire high-quality and thorough knowledge. In addition to organizing their free time effectively and meaningfully, many opportunities are being created for them to work as excellent specialists in their profession in the future. Because the potential and intellectual abilities of young people are of great importance for the rise and prosperity of the homeland.

In one of his speeches, the Head of our state, Sh. Mirziyoyev, emphasized the following points regarding the education of young people. "Another important issue that always worries us is the morality, behavior, in a word, the worldview of our youth. Today, times are changing rapidly. Who feels these changes more than anyone else is the youth. Let the youth be in harmony with the requirements of their time. But at the same time, let them not forget their identity. Let the call to who we are, what great people we are, always resonate in their hearts and encourage them to remain true to their identity. At the expense of what will we achieve this? At the expense of education, upbringing, and only upbringing."

LITERATURE ANALYSIS AND METHODS

Many scientific and methodological manuals and literature on the topic were used in the research process.

DISCUSSION

Organizing extracurricular activities is an important process in the activities of each class leader. Because by effectively and effectively occupying the free time of young people with necessary activities, it is possible to protect students from various harmful and alien ideas. It is appropriate to include various science clubs, crafts, sports clubs, reading evenings, etc. in extracurricular activities. In order to involve students in extracurricular activities, each teacher must take into account their wishes. Extracurricular activities play an important role in effectively organizing students' free time and, at the same time, instilling a sense of patriotism in students. For example, by participating in various clubs and literary evenings organized outside the classroom, students can achieve a high level of spiritual awareness. Even by organizing reading evenings alone, a reading culture can be formed among young students. After all, young people who read a lot of books grow up to be people with deep intelligence and high levels of thinking.

Extracurricular activities play an invaluable role in the formation of a number of positive qualities in students. Extracurricular activities form initiative, creativity, and a number of other abilities in students. Students also acquire the skills of working in a team through extracurricular activities. They are suitable for the formation of leadership skills in themselves. It is clear that when organizing extracurricular activities, each teacher is required to approach this process responsibly, using all his skills. Extracurricular activities can also be organized in education, culture, sports, crafts, and other areas. In this case, the desires and interests of each student in the class team are taken into account.

By involving students who are idle in the class in extracurricular activities, it is possible to develop their potential and at the same time form a sense of self-confidence. Extracurricular activities serve as a leading tool for the development of young students based on national education. The formation of a sense of love for the homeland, family, and society in students creates the basis for them to grow up as perfect people in the future. Through extracurricular activities, it is also possible to form a conscious attitude towards work in students. It is especially important to systematically organize extracurricular activities in primary education. Because during this period, students master basic and necessary knowledge, and the knowledge, skills, and qualifications acquired serve as a basis for their future activities. By providing a child with good education and upbringing from an early age, it helps them to mature into a mature person in the future.

CONCLUSION

In a word, extracurricular activities encourage students to be active, work hard, and constantly strive. If students' free time is effectively organized, we can keep their thinking away from various foreign ideas. Organizing extracurricular activities in an unusual, creative, and modern interpretation further increases the potential of students. Comprehensively developed, intellectually capable young people are the future of the country, the hope for the future. The role of each pedagogical leader in the education of our youth is incomparable. The task is to raise our youth to be perfect people in the future based on quality education and national upbringing.
