INTRODUCTION

In world education, the education of students is a difficult and complex process, which is the reason that teachers and educators carry out a lot of scientific and practical research. The upbringing of young people, raising them to maturity in a scientific and comprehensive way, was considered an important task at all times. Such rare works, recorded by our thinkers, encouraged the growing young generation to adopt negative vices and become morally pure, real people. The way in which the growing young generation is formed is a factor that determines the development of the country.

To educate the future generation in accordance with the world state educational standard, first of all, we need to cultivate the thinking and speech of students. When growing the speech of students of a small school age, it is necessary to form a speech competence of students. Speech-the validity of language in the processes of expression and exchange of thoughts, a certain form of residence in the quality of a particular type of social activity of the language is felt, and for centuries thoughts about speech have been many times encountered in the scientific literature.

LITERATURE ANALYSIS AND METHODS

On such issues as the value of the word, its use, low vocabulary, a lot of meaning loading, lucid thinking, the thinkers of the XP-xsh century Yusuf Khos Hajib and Ahmad Yugnaki also made instructive remarks. Abu Nasr Farabi says about the great importance of lexicology, grammar and logic in correctly speaking, making correct logical conclusions, making content and beautiful speech: “when we come to teaching and learning, how to express, articulate, how to ask and how to respond to fiction, I affirm that the first of the knowledge about it is the science of a language that names bodies and phenomena”. Therefore, the facade that reveals the thoughtful thinking of students is direct speech. We aimed to achieve this goal through the upbringing process. And below we will give a methodology that will grow the student's speech in the process of upbringing.

This methodology helps to develop in the classroom community both educationally and orally. We called this methodology “festive days”. In this, the reader is reminded of some past holiday. For example, the Feast of Navruz. On this holiday, the reader will have to tell what he did, how the holiday passed in the family and among his relatives. In this, the teacher issues one representative of the students.

While the Archer uses this methodology, both mental education and respect for national values and traditions are formed in students. As a result of the fact that students talk about existing phenomena in their minds, speech competencies in them are formed.

DISCUSSION

The colloquial language is considered the first Bashkir of speech cultivation, and it gradually improves. Colloquial language, on the other hand, manifests itself in the oral narration of the texts read. Conversational learning takes place in the course of all classes, but reading classes must be of leading importance. Spiritual perfection is embodied in schoolchildren of younger age through their native language. The native language, including reading, is one of the most important tools in the educational process of speech cultivation. In normalizing oral and written speeches of students, ensuring their proportionality, determining the nature and specificity of the national language, in reflecting the laws of expression and pronunciation, it is necessary to cultivate the practical importance of reading with tonality, that is, to adhere to the norms and criteria of the literary language, to look for ways to improve reading, reading methods.

RESULT

Research on the speech of elementary students is multifaceted, and in the process of upbringing, the cultivation of the speech of students is a double process.

From kindergarten to higher education - we are reforming all the boogins of Education. To increase the knowledge, level of knowledge of not only young people, but also members of our entire society, first of all, olm-enlightenment, high culture is needed. Where there is no knowledge, there will be backwardness, ignorance and, of course, straying from the right path.

CONCLUSION

The greatest wealth is intelligence and science, the greatest inheritance is good upbringing, the greatest poverty is ignorance. This is why for all of us, mastering advanced knowledge, becoming truly enlightened and the owner of a high culture should become a continuous vital need.

To achieve progress, it is necessary that we acquire digital knowledge and modern information technologies vas hart. This allows us to follow the shortest path of development. Because we have no right to forget that the unique wealth of intellectual and cultural potential is crucial in educating and maturing rare talent.
