The cooperation of educational institutions, family and community is necessary for the education of a child, especially for the education of a well-rounded personality. In the process of implementation of the "Strong Family Year" state program adopted at the initiative of the first President of the Republic of Uzbekistan, I.Karimov, to strengthen the cooperation between the family, the neighborhood, and educational institutions, to bring up healthy, mature and well-rounded young people in all aspects. special attention is paid to the issue. Family and school are the main centers of education in the upbringing of the young generation. Raising a child in a family is considered a very delicate and complex matter, and it requires decency, knowledge, and education from parents. Education is a complex and responsible task that is carried out in cooperation with educational institutions, family and neighborhood. In order for the child to develop as an independent and free person, first of all, it is necessary to ensure the stability of the family. We must not forget that the family is the backbone of society. Education in the family is the school and neighborhood that complements education.

LITERATURE ANALYSIS

On the basis of the concept of cooperation of family, neighborhood, educational institutions developed in 1993 by the Cabinet of Ministers of the Republic of Uzbekistan, close cooperation between general education schools, self-government bodies and families has been established. This has been serving the youth to spend their free time meaningfully, to develop students' interest, talent, and ability. Currently, the cooperation of "Family, neighborhood, educational institutions" plays an important role in improving the moral environment in families and educating children in them based on the requirements of the time and in the spirit of national values. For a human child, the family is the main place, a happy and dignified place where he gets ready for life. If we connect the qualities of his character, the fact that a person receives physical and spiritual strength and upbringing with the family, we feel that his contribution to marriage is very great. The family is considered a part of the society, the stronger it is and the more complete it is, the faster the society develops.

We should not forget one more thing: in education, we should treat each child according to his behavior and temperament. Of course, the child's age, gender, intelligence, intelligence, in short, everything should be taken into account. He should forget the idea that he is still a child and be brought up with the idea that he is a child from the beginning. There should be no such thing as a small detail in the education process, because it can be very important in its place." every moment, even when you are not at home, how you dress, how you talk to and about others, how you are happy or worried, how you treat your friends and enemies, how you read the newspaper, all these are children is of great importance for "said the educational scientist. In fact, there is something in a human child that he will never forget the upbringing he received in the family and will always live by imitating that work. There is a proverb in our wise people: "What a bird sees in its nest, it does." Therefore, we should pay great attention to our children from a young age.

If the atmosphere in the family is not good, i.e. parents are indifferent to their children and there are always quarrels, this will have a strong impact on the upbringing and development of the child. Because the family is the child's primary education school. Unfortunately, there are such parents among us who are too attentive to all the needs of the child and bear all their stubbornness. As a result, the child will become a person with bad behavior and harm to society in the future. In order to prevent such problems from arising, we must educate the future young generation and teach them fairness, honesty, honesty and respect.

To sum up, the main center of education in the upbringing of the young generation is the school. Boys and girls from different families come to the school with different behaviors. It is very difficult to learn the rules and regulations of the school and to form the habit of being with the team. If this is done in cooperation with the family and the school, if the negative characteristics of children's behavior are solved together, there will not be a bad student. We know that everything starts from the neighborhood. Education of young people is one of the effective ways of their spiritual development, which is the close cooperation of state law enforcement agencies, public education system and community organizations of neighborhoods. In the coming future, every family and neighborhood is of great importance in raising a perfect person in our society. When raising young people to be well-behaved and loyal to state symbols, special importance should be given to their youth and character, because without them the goal of education cannot be achieved. For example:

- first of all, to develop a healthy environment in the family, to take care of each other;
- to give children worldly knowledge, to grow into a spiritual person;
- to teach children to think independently and to form a feeling of love for the motherland;
- providing additional education for children in their free time;
- holding meetings with neighborhood activists about children's education and solving problems;
- Conducting competitions, holidays, sports competitions for students by the neighborhood.

ANALYSIS AND RESULTS

A. Avloni's phrase: "Education is a matter of life, or death, or salvation, or destruction, or happiness, or disaster for us" has become the principle of the family, school, and neighborhood. Currently, the neighborhood and the community provide a lot of support for children's education. It is desirable to engage young children in community activities, extracurricular activities, organization. Another useful aspect of the neighborhood is the education of teenagers who are difficult to educate outside of school hours and conducting sports and cultural activities with children in their living areas. " said I. Karimov.

In fact, without education, there is no education. Without education, our future is lost. I can say that we should pay attention to education in order for our future youth to be mature and well-rounded in all aspects.

If we express the process of education through numbers, let's put education in the 1st place and choose it as the number 1, now the more zeros we put behind it, the bigger the number will be, that is, the good feelings of a person will increase, but only one number removing it completely changes the value of this number to 0 and makes it meaningless. It can be seen that without education, we have become nothing. So, what makes a person a person, his clothing is education.

The cooperation of family, neighborhood and educational institutions is of great importance in the large-scale work carried out by our President to bring up a highly spiritual generation, which is second to none. The harmonious conduct of education and upbringing serves as the main factor in raising independent-minded, well-rounded young people.
